Hunting Song

By WALTER SCOTT.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and blographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

Waken, lords and ladies gay, On the mountain dawns the day, All the jolly chase is here, With hawk, and horse, and hunting-spear! Hounds are in their couples yelling, Hawks are whistling, horns are knelling, Merrily, merrily, mingle they, "Waken, lords and ladles gay."

Waken, lords and ladies gay,
The mist has left the mountain gray,
Springlets in the dawn are steaming.
Diamonds on the brake are gleaming:
And foresters have busy been,
To track the buck in thickets green;
Now we come to chant our lay,
"Waken, lords and ladies gay,"

Waken, lords and fadies gay, Waken, lords and ladies gay,
To the green-wood haste away;
We can show you where he lies,
Fleet of foot, and tall of size;
We can show the marks he made,
When, 'gainst the oak his antiers fray'd;
You shall see him brought to bay,
"Waken, lords and ladies gay."

Waken, lords and ladles gay!
Tell them youth, and mirth, and glee.
Run a course as well as we;
Time, stern huntsman! who can balk,
Staunch as hound, and fleet as hawk:
Think of this, and rise with day.
Gentle lords and ladles gay.

The glory of religion is that its substance is not meat or drink, the externalities of sacrifice or obtains, but in rishteomers, a subjective condition which will express itself in right conduct.

That this subjective condition is avoived painfully by sources of intelligent self-dental and discipline, the apostle here fearches under the figure of a contest between "Resh" and "spirit.

There is a ceaseless battle of the "I's," the ethical ego and the sensuous ego, which St. Paul phrases minutely in the seventh chapter of Romans.
